

ILLUSIONS OF ADULTING

by Sara Zimmerman

I should have known Ethan wanted more than to be just friends. Steve, I'm so sorry.

HAILEY, I'M ON MY WAY. JUST STAY THERE!

LATER:

STEVE, NO!!!

Hailey, why shouldn't I?
He tried to steal my fiancé!

Steve, stop... please!

The way I see it, Ethan
is getting off lucky if all
I do is destroy his car!

Ethan is who he is. No, it doesn't make his actions okay, but you burning his car or hurting him won't make things right.

Plus, it is only going to hurt us more if you go to jail AGAIN!

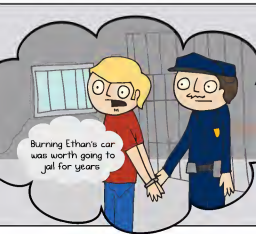

Let's just get him out of our lives. I know that, somehow, karma will give him what he deserves. You'll see.

I'M JUST SO ANGRY!!!

ILLUSION:

REALITY:

But, I guess you're right.
With revenge, we both lose. I don't need to sink to his level.

Thanks, Hailey.

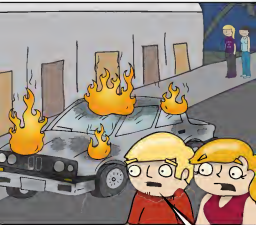

CRASH

()

()

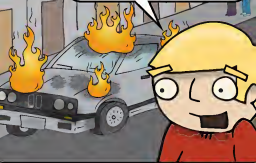

CRASH

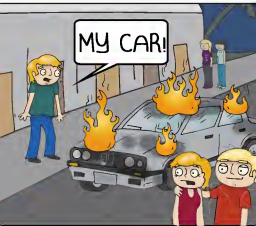

Uhhhhh...

Karma is AWESOME!

WHAT HAPPENED!?!

It was lightning.

Lightning? Whoa.
Oh, STEVE! Uhh...

Steve, I'm sorry for trying to steal your woman. I can totally understand if you want to punch me. I deserve it...

...so go ahead.

Ethan, the only apology I want is for you to move out of this town as fast as you can. NEVER come back and never contact either of us again...

....EVER!

T-t-t-totally, homie.
U-u-u-understood!

Now, let's just enjoy this moment of the fruits of sweet karma...

TO BE CONTINUED...

by Sara Zimmerman / Unearthed Comics

Has karma ever gotten the best of
someone you know?
Share your experience in the comments below: